

COAL PRICES MUST COME DOWN SOON

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Extension of government control of price fixing to coal, iron and steel and other raw materials during the war was considered today by the Senate interstate commerce committee. Coal was the first subject taken up, with Ohio and Pittsburgh operators as first witnesses.

A speedy inquiry was planned by the committee with the view to procuring information on the coal control bill for federal regulation of the basic commodities.

Bills by Senators Pomeroy and Cummins to have the government fix prices of coal and other raw materials were the immediate proposals before the committee, but its investigation promises a much broader scope, including many problems of production, distribution and transportation. C. M. Maderwell, a Chicago coal dealer, predicted a serious coal shortage at the head of the great lakes unless action is taken. He believed that the government would fix prices of coal and other raw materials. He said that the coal situation was in part caused by the fact that the mines operate only eight hours a day while a majority of industries are in operation twenty-four hours a day. Capacity of the mines is about 40 per cent more than present production, but he doubted if they would be able to reach maximum production for lack of railroad transportation.

WHAT MAKES COAL HIGH.

"I think if the attorney general would tell us that the law would not be used against us we could bring down the price of coal very easily," Maderwell replied. He added that the coal situation was in part caused by the fact that the mines operate only eight hours a day while a majority of industries are in operation twenty-four hours a day. Capacity of the mines is about 40 per cent more than present production, but he doubted if they would be able to reach maximum production for lack of railroad transportation.

"What is the average increase in the price of coal to the consumer?" asked Pomeroy.

"It has been very large," he replied. "I was told that it has been from 75 to 100 per cent, but that is only an estimate."

WARNED BY LANE.

Four hundred bituminous and anthracite coal operators, gathered here to consider reduction of coal prices for the government and public, joined in a demonstration of approval when Secretary Lane warned them that the sensible, patriotic and American thing to do was to put into the hands of someone, or small group, the fixing of a low price on coal. Secretary Lane minced no words in telling the coal men they should be patriotic enough to forego profits for successful conduct of the war.

"The success of the country in this great war," he said, "rests on you and the soldiers in the trenches. Pershing in France or the President in the White House. You control the fundamental industry. How much vision are you? Are you small or big? Are you petty politicians or statesmen? The country will not stand anything but a large policy from large men. There must be some new adjustment of the coal industry. When your boy and mine are going to the front it is no time for you to reap an advantage even when it comes under normal demands of trade. The life of the nation is at stake and there are greater things than making money. Is there a man here who will say to me, 'You can send your boy to France while I stay here and coin his blood into dollars'? To be an American citizen is not merely to make a million dollars, but it is to uphold the arm of the man who is making the fight for his country."

Mrs. Mooney's Sister Put On Stand in Bomb Case

Evidence From Richmond and Details of Old Cases Allowed to Go Into Record

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—Mrs. Belle Hammerberg, wife of a local publisher, was called by the prosecution to testify against her own sister, Mrs. Rena Mooney, in the trial before Superior Judge Emmet Sea-well this morning. Although placed under the stand for the purpose of identifying letters alleged to have been written by Thomas J. Mooney, husband of the defendant, Mrs. Hammerberg made the accusation that former Assistant District Attorney James Brennan had been in the office of her brother-in-law, who she said was a very serious situation. "We've got to get somebody, or they'll get us." At the same time Mrs. Hammerberg declared that overtures had been made to her by the district attorney placing her sister's name on the list of those who would be paid if she would testify against Thomas J. Mooney.

This evidence, together with the information that the defense had submitted to the jury, was the subject of the law and order committee of the Chamber of Commerce, which has been largely concerned in investigating the preparation of the bomb outrage, were important developments of the morning's trial.

At the outset, the prosecution continued the presentation of evidence regarding the alleged conspiracy to destroy life and property. They called to the stand R. J. Cantrell, property agent for the Pacific Gas & Electric Company, who described seeing Warren K. Billings with a suitcase at Sacramento and later witnessed him talking to Mooney.

At the time Billings was arrested and sentenced to Folsom prison for carrying a grapple of explosives.

R. C. Greenley, Southern Pacific backman and member of the "Red Jury" of labor men, identified a copy of a letter written to him by Mooney, April 29, 1916. He thought there was some difference between the copy and the original and was ordered to bring the latter into court.

MRS. HAMMERBERG CALLED.

Then it was that Mrs. Hammerberg was called. For purposes of identification she was shown numerous letters written by Mooney, many of which she had previously read only one of them, dated December 15, 1915, and written to "Mother Mary Jones," Denver, Colo. She explained that her sister, Mrs. Mooney, had given her a black folder containing many letters for safekeeping prior to July 1, 1916, and that she had turned these over to Assistant District Attorney Brennan. It was after that that Brennan made her and told her that she had made statements to him and that it was a very serious thing, and she asserted, said, "We've got to get somebody, or they'll get us."

"I had previously told the truth to Mr. Brennan," continued the witness. "I explained that we had been on the roof of the Elmer's building all the afternoon of the parade and that my sister and her husband were there, too. These relations were made on cross-examination. Mrs. Hammerberg told the defendant's counsel that she had first told of the letters to an attorney for the gas company after the explosion, as she was anxious not to hide anything. He had advised her that she need not hand the letters over unless she was asked for them. Later, she testified that the same lawyer approached her with a proposition from the district attorney that her sister would go free if she would testify against Mooney.

An objection on the part of the prosecution to the latter disclosure was sustained.

CONSPIRACY EVIDENCE.

Continuing the introduction of conspiracy evidence, Charles H. Walker, chief of police of Richmond, was called and told of the arrest of Mooney, Joseph Brown and H. L. Hanlon at Richmond, December 27, 1913. He identified guns and property as having been seen by him in the Richmond police station, but declared that he had not found them when he searched Mooney's boat at Bailey's wharf following the arrest.

Mooney's attorney during his trial, following the arrest of Mooney, was called to the stand and testified to his acquittal on a charge of having explosives, Thomas E. Johnston, now district attorney of Contra Costa county, followed Walker. He was not allowed to give the details of an affidavit made by Mooney, which, it is claimed, has disappeared from the county clerk's office at Martinez.

Ernest Gruenhagen, who runs a summer resort at Glen Cove, described the visits of the Mooneys during three or four week-ends in 1913. Assistant District Attorney Ferrari endeavored unsuccessfully to offer a picture of the beach at Glen Cove with towers in the distance. The defense objected, and on cross-examination it was brought out that Mrs. Mooney had said she was a music teacher working hard during the week and wanted to recuperate while sojourning at Gruenhagen's resort. The Mooneys had given their right names on the occasions of their visits.

The prosecution has already outlined the conspiracy contention as to the main trunk of the "Red Jury" much was given color in the opening statement of Assistant District Attorney Louis Ferrari, at the beginning of the case. Efforts of the defense to shut out evidence tending to corroborate the defense have met with little encouragement from the court, which yesterday took down the bars and opened the judicial pasture to stray bits of evidence of vast importance to the State.

VARIED EVIDENCE.

Yesterday's evidence swung through a wide gamut of variety. Scraps of previous history of the Mooneys, visits of Mrs. Mooney to the city of Billings in Sacramento after he had been arrested with sixty-five sticks of dynamite in his possession, conferences between Mooney and Billings in the capital city; the story of Giovanni Greco, a plumber, who had been a fisherman in whose boat Thomas Mooney and two other men are alleged to have sailed on the night before Christmas with a strange cargo; the identification of the mysterious gun with the aluminum painted barrel; the rifle with the Maxim silencer—all these things came up during the day.

Nor was the defense inactive during the introduction of this mass of evidence which the prosecution claims to be of a damaging nature. At almost every other question attorneys were on their feet with protests. Sharp clashes between counsel were the order of the day, the defense branding the State's evidence as "an hysterical history of crime," and declaring that the evidence would seem to have been the nebulous purpose of the conspiracy.

RECRUITING WORK WILL BE ON TEST

Unusual efforts are being exerted by army recruiting officers to gain in Alameda county a fair share of the 70,000 men volunteer army wanted by President Wilson during this week. The drive is a test not only of American patriotism, believe the enlistment office men, but it enables war department heads in Washington to judge the efficiency of America's recruiting system.

Local officers compare the president's call for 70,000 volunteers with Lincoln's original call at the Civil War's beginning. The military executive's call was for 75,000 men, and brought into the army more than that number. The time limit was much longer, however, and army men regard this week's effort as a true test of the country's morale.

So that American first-line troops—the regulars—may enter the conflict on war strength the week's drive is being executed. Regiments lack scores of soldiers each case, and the men who enter the army now will find themselves steadied by old-line troops who not only fight well but aid the novice in regaining lost confidence through sudden entrance into a new and bewildering world.

There can be no beautiful, healthy, rosy-cheeked women who do not have iron in their blood. The trouble has been that when women needed iron they generally took cod liver oil, which is a most disagreeable and often corroded the stomach and did far more harm than good. Today doctors prescribe organic iron—Nuxated Iron. This particular form of iron is easily assimilated, does not blacken the teeth, does not upset the stomach. It will increase the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, irritable, careworn, haggard-looking women. It is the only iron which is safe for the most delicate of women. RUSS WANT SAFETY FOR DEMOCRACY

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The Russian mission was received today in the Senate, where the ambassador, Boris A. Bakmeteff, made an address which was greeted with a demonstration of approval that in the House recently when the mission appeared there.

Bakmeteff spoke generally, as he did in the House, pledging Russia's unflinching adherence to the cause of the grand alliance against German autocracy and reaction, without qualification, a separate peace.

In part he spoke as follows: "There has been a period closely following the revolution of almost total suppression of all military activity, a period of what appeared to be disintegration of the army, a period which gave rise to serious doubts and to gloomy forebodings. At the same time there endured unlimited freedom of speech and of the press, which afforded opportunities for expression of the most extreme and anti-national views, from all of which resulted widespread rumors throughout the world that Russia would abandon the war and conclude a separate peace with the central powers.

SEEK LASTING PEACE. "With all emphasis and with the deepest conviction may I reiterate the statement that such rumors were wholly without foundation in fact. Russia rejects with indignation any idea of separate peace. What my country is striving for is the establishment of a firm and lasting peace between democratic nations. Russia is firmly convinced that a separate peace would mean the triumph of German autocracy, which would render lasting peace impossible, create the greatest danger for democracy and liberty and ever be a threatening menace to the new-born freedom of Russia.

"Peaceful intentions, striving for a lasting peace based on democratic principles established by democratic will, the Russian people and its army are rallying their forces around the banners of freedom, strengthening their ranks in cheerful self-consciousness to die, but not to be slaves.

"Russia wants the world to be safe for democracy. To make it safe means to have democracy rule the world."

ROOT TELLS STAND. BY ASSOCIATED PRESS. LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

MOSCOW, Saturday, June 23 (delayed in transmission).—In the first of four hours of his address in Moscow, Elihu Root, head of the American mission, addressed six important organizations representing every kind of industrial activity and every shade of political belief. In each instance he was received with the liveliest interest and enthusiasm, not only by representatives of the government but by the workmen and soldiers' delegates, who listened eagerly to his account of the way in which America is mobilizing all her resources in the struggle to preserve democracy. In a speech before the military and industrial committee, today, Root said:

"I do not think we fully appreciate the difficulties under which you have labored. A study of conditions since our arrival reveals these difficulties as far greater than we supposed. That increases our admiration for the courage, persistence and public spirit with which you have carried on your great work in the last two years."

Doctor Warns Public
SAYS CERTAIN TABLETS, PILLS AND POWDERS
OFTEN DO MORE HARM THAN GOOD

Recommends New Prescription for Sick, Out-of-Order
Stomachs

Many people who suffer from stomach trouble in its various forms, states a prominent stomach specialist, are in the habit of taking peppy candy tablets, artificial digestants, after-dinner pills and all sorts of cheap medicines. These may give temporary relief, but as most stomach ills are caused by acidity, these preparations are not indicated. The fact that a medicine is good to taste, or put up in candy form to make it good to eat, does not always indicate that it is good for you. These powders or tablets are not always effective—the stomach will not absorb them as quickly as a liquid remedy. By continuing the use of these concoctions, a slight acidity of the stomach may develop into chronic gastritis, or some other serious trouble. If you have stomach trouble, you should take a real medicine for it. You can avoid a great

Devastated Lands Being Restored Americans Aid in Rehabilitation

FRENCH FRONT, June 11 (correspondence of the Associated Press).—American, French and British civilians are working in closest co-operation with the French military and civil authorities in restoring the lands devastated by the Germans when they hurriedly quit the lines they had held for two years from Noyon to the Somme. The Associated Press correspondent after visiting Noyon went through the entire district and observed what was being done.

Others have followed the example of the federal capital and have devoted their energies to the succor of particular localities. For instance the American fund for French wounded has stepped aside from its original idea and taken full charge of the hamlet of Bebrucourt, with its 125 remaining inhabitants.

The Committee de Chabranes La Pollice has taken to herself the hamlet of Maucourt, of which only heaps of bricks and stones remain, and will rebuild it. Doctor Baron Henri de Rothschild has opened a food and clothing depot at Noyon, and sends everything necessary to any applicant in any part of the afflicted district.

VILLAGES ARE RAZED. All this, however, is but a drop in the ocean when it is realized that there are 243 villages and hamlets spread over the country which the Germans before their retreat tried to make into a desert. One hundred of these small communities are now just heaps of stones and bricks without one habitable room or cellar among them, while the remainder were partly demolished and the rest only slightly.

In this region 35,000 old men and women and young children under 15 years were left without shelter or food by the Germans. Some 12,000 of these were evacuated immediately to the interior of France, where a proportion of them joined relatives.

The military authorities have grappled in a masterly way with the vast problem which confronts them of providing for large numbers of civilians immediately behind the lines. They set to work to organize the country and its people. The first step was to provide food, and this was done through the military commissariat, as there was no means of civilian transport of supplies from other parts of France.

AMERICAN TRACTORS AID. Then came the question of putting in cultivation again the 250,000 acres of agricultural land comprised in the zone. The devastated country was divided into seven sections and companies of twenty-five communists, each in charge of an officer with skilled aides. Horses were lent by the army, broken ploughs and harrows were repaired by motor mechanics of the army, seeds of all kinds were procured and work on the land was begun. For this manual labor was necessary, and this was found among the many peasants and small farmers in the tanks.

Thirty American tractors were found lying idle in a depot not far from the stricken district, and these were transported to the places where they could be most useful and put to work. The labor was dangerous owing to the presence of unexploded shells under the surface of the fields, but this was overcome by the use of these tractors.

In this way about 4000 acres have been ploughed and sown with grain and grass, and another 2500 more ploughed and cleared of weeds, with the help of American, English and French donors, every family has been provided with seeds and roots to form a truck garden, with the result that sufficient produce is expected to make the community self-supporting.

Teuton Thoroughness
Shown in Ruin Work

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—German thoroughness—as exemplified in cutting down fruit trees, destroying farm implements, filling up wells, driving away live stock and leaving an empty countryside in the French territory which they were forced to evacuate—is described in letters from Miss Daisy Polk, who is assisting in the work of rehabilitation, using funds largely supplied by San Franciscans, and her letters tell of things seen in the ruined villages of Cury, Vauchelles, Sernoz, Catigny, Chevilly, Marguy-Aux-Cerises, Candor, Solente, Ville, Gollcourt, Beaulieu-Fontaines and Garndu.

Cows, chickens, rabbits and goats are being distributed in these villages of the Oise district by the commission, which Miss Polk is working for. The Germans left not an animal behind them. Even the dogs were either killed or driven away. The inhabitants spared by the invaders, old people and children, were without eggs or milk.

VILLAGES PITIABLE. "In every village we visited," writes Miss Polk, "the entire population between the ages of 15 and 60 is deported, except some of the mothers of young children." "The German system of conquest is very thorough. They first took away all the notable, or leading people of the community, and all the mayors and school teachers and curies were either shot or deported." "So that not only were the people left without their natural leaders, but also without church or school for over two years. In many of the villages the entire adult population was forced to work all day every day, winter and summer, for themselves, but for the Germans, without pay and with insufficient food and clothes. Then in March all that remained of the effective population, those between 15 and 60, were taken away."

"At Solente there are ninety women and children and two old men. It is here that they shot the mayor, school teacher and five other men—nobody knows why. This is in the region where all the fruit trees were cut down, and I shall never forget the expression of the women who said, 'Ah, Madame, when are we going to taste an apple again?'"

"At Ayrcourt we saw the chateau which Prince Eitel-Frederic had occupied, and which he blew up when he left. It is a flat heap of ruins, not one stone left on another. The chateau cyclone cellar he had constructed as a refuge from bombardments still exists to show what consideration he had for his own skin. We saw many of these 'abris.' Naturally, these shelters against bombardment were for the Germans, not for the women and children in the villages."

TRIBUNE BUREAU
628 MARKET ST.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—It took war, wounds and convalescence to make a bridegroom out of Alexander A. Cuthbertson, local clubman and shipping expert, who became a lieutenant in the famous Black Watch at the conflict's beginning, leaving his San Francisco position for British service.

"Sandy," as he is known to his fellow members at the San Francisco Golf and Country, the Presidio Golf and the Marin Country Golf and Country Clubs, married Miss Katharine May, daughter of Dr. J. H. May, of Ferry, England, June 5. The local favorite met his bride the first time he was invalided home in 1915. Returning to the battle front again this year he once more received wounds, and, coming back to his mother's home, succumbed to the English girl's charm. He is the son of the late James Cuthbertson of Dundee and Mrs. Cuthbertson.

LABORERS NEEDED
VALLEJO, June 26.—Mare Island officials report that they have work for at least 100 men in the local labor market and if the men report this week they will benefit by the 100 per cent bonus under the new law, which goes into effect on July 1. Laborers are paid $2.50 a day, and with the ten per cent increase and the many advantages offered for advancement by the government, the men will be much better off in the future than those employed on the outside.

SHRINERS RALLY
MINNEAPOLIS, June 26.—With the usual pomp and ceremony absent because of the war, the annual meeting of the Imperial Council, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, opened today with clearly 100 delegates from all sections of the country present. The council will elect Charles E. Overhill of Minneapolis Imperial potentate to succeed Noble Nidringhaus, and will adjourn Wednesday night.

WAR'S END HINGES ON FOOD SUPPLY

LONDON, June 26.—"Discontent of the stomach is more to be feared than discontent of the brain; that is why we value the co-operation of American farmers," this statement was made by R. E. Prothero, minister of agriculture, in the Associated Press today. "The outcome of the war," said Prothero, "may ultimately hang on the question of food supplies, and the American farmer is allotted the crucial part to play in the great struggle for freedom."

This declaration, with a note of welcome to agriculturists across the sea, who "are determined to use every ounce of their strength to win the war on the plough lands of the United States," was the keynote of the minister's message to the American farmers. Discussing the economic and material effect on agriculture by the entrance of the United States into the war, Prothero continued:

"To vindicate the cause of humanity and national liberty the great democracy of the western world, true to its traditions, has taken its stand on the side of allied peoples. In clear cut, memorable phrases, President Wilson stated the high ideals animating the United States in joining the allied cause must be and already have been immense."

APPEAL TO FARMERS. "The President, in his address April 15, puts to the forefront an appeal to the farmers. He bids them to carry on to their plough lands the same spirit that animates their brother allies in trenches, on the sea and in munitions factories. From the grim spectacle of human carnage and the feverish race of piling up munitions the farmer stands aloof. His task is to make hills, plains and valleys stand so thick with corn that they shall sing. Yet the man who sows the seed is helping as is the man who shoulders a rifle on the war front."

"The need of food for man and beast is great whether peace is won or war prolonged."

Replying to a question as to what the United Kingdom is doing in the food production department, Prothero said that fully one-third of labor usually employed on land has been taken for war work.

"Short-handed, harassed by a hundred new difficulties, the farmers are struggling to increase grain production by every means in their power. 'Upwards of 120,000 women in England and Wales, old and young, drawn from every section of the country, are toiling on land—tilling, hard and continuously. We have quadrupled our garden plots. After harvest the men return to their homes to labor with their wives."

"There has been no complaint concerning breadstuffs substituted for the wheat loaf. The situation has been acclimated to the use of beer and believe in the aid it gives them. It comes to be a part of their daily diet and they know of no other substitute to replace it."

"We are further contemplating a drastic reduction of our livestock and meat consumption. These provisions will have to be endured, but we do not fear such shortage as would mean starvation."

Prothero then discussed the value of co-operation of our livestock and farmers, and continued:

RISK OF SHORTAGE. "There is risk that the shortage of food may strain endurance to the breaking point. There is yet no indication that we even have distantly approached the point of endurance might snap if, for instance, the milk supply failed through inability to feed the dairy herd, because then lives of little children would be threatened. Thus there is a greater question involved in food supply than the loss of the comforts of life or even reduction in its accustomed necessities. For this reason it is a welcome relief to us to know that the farmers of the United States are co-operating with the allies; that they fully realize the essential nature of their play in the struggle for freedom; that they are bringing into their work the spirit of self-sacrifice and endurance, and that they are determined to put out the last ounce of their strength to win the war on the plough lands of the United States. Here and there, God speed the plough!"

SOLDIERS' PAY IN MODERN TIMES

CHICAGO, June 26.—An interesting comparison between the pay received by men who served under George Washington and that which will be paid American soldiers who go to France in the new army was made today in a recruiting argument which placed a poster of revolutionary days side by side with one appealing for men now. The men who won freedom for the United States received $9 a year, "the whole of which they had to buy up for himself and friends," according to the poster, which points out that ample rations were allowed the army and "an annual and fully sufficient supply of good and handsome clothing."

The men who enlist during Recruiting Week will receive not merely food and clothing, but at least $20 a month, with an automatic increase of twenty per cent when ordered to foreign service. If he qualifies as first-class private, he will receive $24 a month, and men with trades do even better. Cooks especially are wanted at $25 a month. It is estimated that one dollar in the army is equal to three in civil life, because the soldier's housing, food, clothing, transportation and medical attention are furnished by the government. Army recruiting officers are pointing out that chances of promotion now are better than ever before.

SCHOOLS PLAN
COURSES TO AID
STATE WORKERS

SACRAMENTO, June 26.—Shop departments of the vocational and technical high schools of California may be kept open during the summer to provide opportunity for men needed in industrial work to take short, condensed courses, E. R. Snyder, state commissioner of vocational education, announced today.

The California branch of the educational committee of the National Defense Council, urged these departments to remain open.

WAR EXPENSES OF ENGLAND ARE HUGE TOTAL

LONDON, June 26.—The total national expenditure for the nine weeks from October 8 to December 9 last was on a daily average of £6,815,000, says a statement in detail, prepared by Andrew Bonar Law, the chancellor of the exchequer, for the House of Commons.

The five weeks, from April 1 to May 3, 1917, the statement shows the daily average of expenditure was £7,971,000, while for the five weeks, from May 6 to June 9, it was £7,332,000. For the ten weeks, from April 1 to June 9, the expenditure shows to have averaged £7,552,000. For the respective periods set forth the actual war expenditure daily, the chancellor states was £5,714,000, £7,357,000, £5,555,000 and £6,723,000.

HEAVY EXPORTS TO RUSSIA SHOWN

NEW YORK, June 26.—Exports to Russia from the United States during the first three years of the war will total nearly $1,000,000,000, while for the fifty years preceding the war the aggregate was a little more than half that amount, according to compilations by the National City Bank. Exports to Russia in the fiscal year 1915 were $61,000,000; in 1916, $314,000,000, and in the fiscal year 1917, which ends with the present month, $565,000,000.

War materials form the bulk of the exports to Russia in the period since the beginning of hostilities, though railway material is also an important factor.

BUDGET FOR SCHOOLS IS GIVEN BOARD

An increase of $120,000 in the budget for maintenance of the Oakland schools will be necessary for next year, according to estimates furnished the Board of Education by Superintendent A. C. Barker. This amount would provide for 130 additional pupils, higher prices for supplies and for salaries.

Superintendent Barker's report, on which he bases the estimate, follows:

The approximate cost for maintenance of the kindergartens for the present fiscal year will be $120,000. The average daily attendance has been 1135. Consequently the per capita cost is about $46.97. As five additional kindergartens have been authorized by the Board of Education, I estimate that the average daily attendance will be 1370 for the next fiscal year and the per capita cost of maintenance on account of the increase in salaries $48.62, which would require a levy for maintenance purposes of $53,692.20. In addition, there should be $6000 provided for portables, furniture and equipment for the new kindergartens, or a total budget of $59,692.20. As the budget for the present fiscal year, including permanent improvements, is $37,657.55, the total increase in the kindergarten budget for next year will be $22,034.65.

The estimated expenditures for maintenance for the present fiscal year, after all outstanding obligations have been paid, is $1,095,352.52, or a per capita cost of $22.35. I estimate the average daily attendance for next year to be 21,125, and the per capita cost $54, which will require a budget of $1,140,750, or an increase for maintenance of $45,397.48 over this year.

The estimated expenditures for the present fiscal year for maintenance is $484,769.70, or a per capita cost of $10.15 per pupil. On account of enlistments and the increase in the cost of living, I believe that the average daily attendance in the high schools next year will not exceed 4500. Because of the increase in salaries, it will probably require a budget for maintenance of $104 per capita or a total of $468,000, or $23,231 more than expended during the present year.

Boys Well Treated, Company Says

Companions Discipline Objector

Difference of opinion as to the treatment accorded a company of high school boys who are spending their summer vacation in Lassen county lumber camps has been brought out as the result of an investigation of complaints by the Oakland board of education.

That there are two sides to the matter developed last evening when Secretary Daniel W. Pratt of the board reported communications that he has received from different sources, principally from the officers of the Red River Lumber Company at Westwood Park, from which place Ray M. Wood, president of the Technical High student body, recently sent protests that many youths had been misled into accepting employment there and that conditions were not suitable for the workers.

As a sidelight upon the situation, it developed that Wood had incurred the enmity of many of the student workers and that they had administered to him physical chastisement and forced him to sign a statement of vindication.

The communication from the Red River Lumber Company to the State Board of Health, a copy of which has been presented to the board of education, contains the following statement:

"When an article appearing in the OAKLAND TRIBUNE was called to the attention of the rest of the students they were very much incensed against him (Wood, who had written the complaint) and it was necessary to afford him protection, as they considered that he had gotten them in bad, as they thought it would show lack of appreciation of our efforts to take care of them."

An investigation was made and it was found that all of the students signed an article, repudiating the statements made by Wood, with the exception of Wood and two or three of his pals. After a few days the students understood that Wood signed a statement that he had misrepresented the facts and withdrawing the charges he had made."

The lumber company letter went on to state that when the students arrived every effort had been made to give them the comforts of a lumber camp; that many of the boys had worked for the company year after year and that there had never been such a complaint.

It was explained that a University of California student named Putter had been selected to visit Oakland and obtain the services of students for the summer's work, and that he gathered 125 in all to work in the camp.

The board was disposed to accept the explanation, but upon reconsideration decided to refer the entire matter to the state labor bureau. Director Harriet Hawes stated that she has conversed with two boys who recently returned from the camp and that they had told her they were obliged to pay for room and board in a hotel, as they could not endure the fare in the camp. In the course of his investigation Secretary Pratt interviewed several boys who have returned and found, he said, that the conditions in the camp, while probably not affording all the comforts of home, appeared to be about what could be expected in the life in the forests.

SHEEHAN AWAITS CORONER'S VERDICT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—Dimly conscious in a brain muddled by a three days' debauch that he had done something unpardonable, Thomas Edward Sheehan, a former member of the police force and fire department, today is sitting in a cell in the city prison waiting for the verdict of the coroner's jury. Yesterday afternoon he shot and instantly killed his brother, William P. Sheehan, on the back stairs of his home at 457 1/2 Eighth street, because the latter upbraided him for being drunk.

William Sheehan was a policeman, recently transferred from the Southern station to the Richmond station. He was playing with his 2-year-old boy, William, when Thomas came home reeling drunk after an absence of three days. He reproved the man for his habitual intemperance, whereupon Thomas staggered into the house, his brother's revolver and came back.

"You can't talk to me like that," he said. He took aim and fired two shots. One entered William Sheehan's head and the other pierced his heart. He fell to the ground and died almost instantly.

As he fell his policeman's star rolled from his pocket. The 3-year-old boy picked up the glittering object, rushed upstairs and into the room where his grandfather, Mrs. Mary Sheehan, 79 years old, was sitting.

"Oh, grandma," he panted, "here is papa's star. He's sick." He just left down and died."

Mrs. Sheehan had heard the shots and at the baby's words she realized what had happened. She fainted. Physicians say today that she will not recover from the shock.

Thomas E. Sheehan, the murderer, was appointed to the police force November 26, 1907, and dismissed on May 6, 1909, for drunkenness. He was afterward appointed to the fire department, from which he was dismissed six months ago on charges of being drunk while on duty. He is 33 years old and has a divorced wife and a year-old baby living in Fourteenth street.

William Sheehan was 39 years old, a widower, and leaves his one child and his aged mother.

SCHOOLS TO LOSE COUNTY RATING

Six accredited schools in the county that heretofore have been able to graduate their pupils without examination have been deprived of the special ratings and beginning with the regular fall term in August their students will be compelled to take the county board examinations in order to graduate. The schools affected are those in Hayward, San Leandro, Piedmont, Livermore, Pleasanton and Emeryville.

The action of the county board is not a reflection upon any of the schools. It was announced by County Superintendent of Schools George W. Frick yesterday, but is in line with the intention of the board to centralize as far as possible the school system.

For several years past students in accredited schools have been graduated on the marks made in their daily work. Special instruction in military science and agriculture will be urged during the coming terms and special credit will be given for school gardens. Domestic science and vocational training will be introduced into many of the smaller schools.

BODY IDENTIFIED

PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—The mystery surrounding the death of a man and woman in a hotel in this city on Sunday last was cleared today when John J. Alexander came here from Pittsburgh and identified the dead man as Lieutenant Ferdinand S. Alexander, his brother, who, he said, held a commission in the signal corps of the navy. Alexander told charges on the body and that of Louise Jones, of New York, to whom Lieutenant Alexander was to have been married, and who shot herself shortly after Alexander had died from an attack of indigestion.

HOSPITAL SYSTEM PLANS PROGRESS

Progress is being made in the working out of the plans that will ultimately govern the revised and reorganized hospital system of Alameda county.

The survey at the County Infirmary is complete, and the employees who have been stationed there have left and are putting into shape the revised plan. The survey was very thorough because the two employees of the State Board of Charities and Corrections were present there for practically three weeks.

The State Board of Charities and Corrections has consulted freely with all officials of Alameda county, and they authorized the statement that they have received the most complete and satisfactory help from all, from the members of the Board of Supervisors, from the local management at the infirmary and from the district attorney's office.

They are thoroughly impressed with the fact that the officials of Alameda county are trying to help us arrive at a satisfactory conclusion in this matter."

Said Rabbi Martin A. Meyer, chairman of the board, last night: "I am confident that we will be able to help them in return. There is a great field for work here and we have been given the most cordial assistance from all."

"I am heartily for the plans as suggested by the State Board of Charities and Corrections," said supervisor John F. Mullins. "Not only is this board composed of high minded and broad visioned men, but they are practical as well, and we will be able to get from them scientific advice that it would cost this county untold money to purchase."

"I heartily endorse their plan for the establishment of a governing board composed of specialists for our hospital activities. This will do much toward taking the hospital out of politics, but it means more than that. It means that we will get the expert service of big men for a branch of the county work that needs such men."

"I hope and expect that we will get a big, broad, working plan for our hospital and relief system, and as far as I am concerned, when we get such a plan, we will put it into operation without regard to politics. There is much to be done yet, but I am satisfied that we will ultimately get just what we have long needed—a complete and co-ordinated hospital system."

Garis Bedtime Stories

UNCLE WIGGILY AND KITTIE'S THIMBLE

Copyright, 1917, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

By HOWARD R. GARIS.

As Uncle Wiggily Longears, the nice little gentleman, was eating breakfast in his hollow stump bungalow one morning he heard a tapping and knocking on the door.

"Come in," he called, as he ate the last of the peanut pancakes which Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, his muscular lady housekeeper, had made for him.

In came Kittie Kat, the pussy girl, who was a sister to the little Kat, of whom I have told you some stories.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily," measured Kittie, "is this your going to do anything special this morning?"

"Well," said the old bunny uncle slowly, as he folded up his pink twinkling nose, "I have to meet my little Tim."

"Well, I think I am going to look for an adventure in my morning," said Kittie, "I may have the pleasure of doing for you."

"With you'd stop at the hollow stump school," said Kittie, "Come around about 3 o'clock, when I get out."

"Oh, you want Uncle Wiggily to come to give you a ride—I see," laughed Nurse Jane.

"No, indeed," measured Kittie, "but we have a sewing lesson today, and I'm going to sew something for Uncle Wiggily. I want him to come to hollow stump school and get it."

"Indeed," said the bunny gentleman, with his jolly laugh, "What are you going to sew for me, Kittie?"

"I think I'll make you a pocket handkerchief," said the little pussy girl. "You see, she went on, 'I'm not very good at sewing yet, as I've only had a few lessons. I have to make, at first, something easy like a handkerchief. After a while I'll make you a shirt or a coat and vest.'"

"That will be fine," cried Uncle Wiggily, "I'll call for you at the school, Kittie."

So the little pussy girl went on to her class, singing and meowing because she was so happy thinking of the handkerchief she was going to make for Uncle Wiggily.

And that rabbit gentleman, after having had new loggins made, put on his automobile, started riding and also to look for an adventure. Over the hill and dale, through the woods and fields, he went, but he did not find an adventure but he, and finally 2 o'clock came and he remembered he must go to the hollow stump school.

When he got there Kittie was waiting for him.

"Here is your handkerchief," she said, and she held out a piece of white cloth with sewing around the edges. The cloth was rather crooked and squee-geed, for Kittie had not been very good at sewing, but Uncle Wiggily said his new handkerchief was just fine.

"I'll wrap it around my neck as I'm riding in my automobile," he said. "It will keep me from getting cold. Hop in, Kittie."

The little pussy girl crawled in the auto, carrying her needles, pins, thread, cloth and sewing scissors with her, as school was out.

Uncle Wiggily and Kittie had a fine ride, and the handkerchief felt the cold wind from sitting down the rabbit gentleman's neck, and it was crooked and squee-geed—I mean the handkerchief was that way, not the bunny's neck—oh, dear, no.

And pretty soon, as Mr. Longears and Kittie rode along, they came to a very small, tiny house in the wood, and from the house came the sound of a sad voice saying:

"Oh, dear! What shall I do? I am so thirsty but I cannot get even a drop of water."

"Ha! Here is trouble, and here is an adventure, I hope," said Uncle Wiggily, stopping his automobile. "Come, Kittie, we must see what we can do to help."

So they got out of the machine and went to the little house. It was no small thing they could not get inside, but there came to the window a dear, little yellow canary bird lady, who lived there.

"Well, well! What is the matter?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"The water bucket has fallen down my deep well, and I can't get it up. I want so much to give the bunny to Kittie. 'I can't get up the well bucket for her.'"

"You don't need to, Uncle Wiggily," said Kittie.

"Yes, I do, else how can I draw the canary bird any water?"

"By using my sewing thimble for a bucket," said the pussy girl, laughing.

"The very thing," cried the rabbit gentleman. So he fastened some of Kittie's spool of thread around the pussy girl's thimble, dropped it down the well and drew up the thimble, the thimble, and Kittie was so happy. Then Kittie, having another thimble at home, let her school one for the bird lady to use as a well bucket, and so everything came out all right.

THE LIGHT-HEARTED WOMEN

A cheerful, light-hearted woman is the joy of a man's life. Beauty will fade, a good figure will change, but the charm of health and cheerfulness will endure to the end. How can a woman be cheerful and happy when dressed down by some of the dearest garments, with a constant headache, and often on the verge of a nervous breakdown.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for such ailments. During the last forty years thousands of homes have been made happy by this woman's great remedy for woman's ills.—Advertisement.

THE RESIDENCE OF MR. AND MRS. S. DAVIS IN ALAMEDA WILL BE THE SCENE OF A PRETTY APPOINTED WEDDING

tomorrow evening when their daughter, Miss Alice Davis, becomes the bride of John Ryland Grigg. The ceremony will be simple in detail, with only a small coterie of the most intimate friends in attendance. The betrothal of the young couple was announced but a few weeks ago, since when Miss Davis has been entertained extensively. Grigg comes from a well-known family in Joplin, Mo., where the new home is to be made. He is a mining engineer.

Oakland friends will be eager to welcome Mrs. E. E. Baker to their midst again. For the summer at least she will be in town, having leased the residence of Miss Pearl Kingsland and Miss Olive Kingsland, in Linda Vista, for several months. Mrs. Baker has an attractive place in San Rafael, which is at present being occupied by Judge Hunt of San Francisco and his family. Her daughter, Mrs. Olcott Cummings, who since her marriage a few years ago, has resided in Eureka, has come down from the north with her children to remain at the house of Mrs. Baker for some weeks.

The Kingsland home is one of the charming places on the border between Oakland and Piedmont. The family will spend the greater part of the mid-year at their place in the Santa Cruz mountains. They recently returned from a fortnight's sojourn in the Yosemite.

The passing of Mrs. Philip M. Lansdale last week brought to many friends on this side of the bay a deep grief, and many have been the notes of sympathy which have found their way into the Hillsborough home as well as to the Nichols family. Mrs. Lansdale had been critically ill for many weeks and physicians some time ago pronounced a verdict against her recovery to health. She was the daughter of Bishop William Ford Nichols of California and Mrs. Nichols and a sister of Mrs. Charles Mills and Miss Peggy Nichols, whose betrothal to Edward H. Clark Jr. was told this spring.

Mrs. D. E. Esterbrook has joined the smart colony at Shasta, where she will spend several weeks of the mid-summer. This region is a favorite one with the gracious president of the Home Club, who for several seasons has elected to enjoy an outing there.

After a charming visit of a fortnight with her mother, Mrs. P. D. Nicol, Mrs. J. Leroy Nelson has returned to the south that she might be near her husband, Lieutenant Neilson, U. S. N., who is stationed there. They have leased an attractive cottage in store for them the young couple do not know and it may be that Mrs. Nelson will return a little later to the bay cities. Mrs. Nelson was the former Helen Nicol, one of the popular girls of the Berkeley smart set.

Mrs. Raymond Clinch has returned to her home in Grass Valley after an interesting visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Charles Downey, in East Oakland. Her sister, Mrs. Helen Downey, is as yet making no very definite plans for her marriage with Harry Sumner Houghton, although the wedding will probably take place sometime in the fall.

Mr. and Mrs. George Porter, formerly Miss Esther Lauren, are leaving shortly for Capitola, where they will spend a few weeks of their vacation. They have leased an attractive cottage at the popular resort for a part of the season. Mr. and Mrs. Lin Church left today for their ranch at Alamo, where they will remain through the mid-year.

Mrs. Katherine Edson Phillips was a luncheon hostess today, claiming an interesting coterie of women leaders at the Woman's Athletic Club in honor of Mrs. William D. Stephens, wife of Governor Stephens. It is one of the first opportunities which the local women have had in greeting their chief executive's wife, as her health has been such as to forbid any great activity. For that reason Mrs. Phillips' function today was most informal. Mrs. Phillips is making her home through the summer in Berkeley.

Mrs. J. M. Bradley will be a luncheon hostess tomorrow, sharing her hospitality with a dozen close friends at Hotel Oakland. The blue room will lend the setting to the prettily planned mid-summer function.

THE CURIOUS QUEST OF MR. ERNEST BLISS

By E. Phillips Oppenheim

The labor bureau seemed more hopeless than usual. Inquiries at the august establishment where Bliss had paid his half guinea were fruitless.

The went back to his lodgings tired out, and for the first time omitted to pay Mrs. Heath her weekly bill. He threw himself upon the bed for a few hours, and then, some time before dawn, rose again and made his way to Covent Garden. He was stiff and tired and a little sick.

Nevertheless, he made his way doggedly enough among the market carts, looking out always for a job at loading or unloading.

At last it seemed to him that his chance had come. A dray, filled with flowers and vegetables, was just about to start when the driver, who had been sitting for some minutes with the reins in his hands, beckoned to him.

"Want a job as unloader?" he inquired. "I'm out Batham and Streatham way. It's worth half a crown."

"I'm on," Bliss replied readily. "Shall I climb up behind?"

The former was on the point of assenting when two unsavory-looking men emerged from a public-house a few yards away. One of them—red-faced, truculent, the very type of the loafing bully—shook his fist at the driver.

"Now you," he shouted, "chuck that! My pal Tim's coming along with you."

"All very well," the carter grumbled, "but I've just engaged another chap. I've waited for your friend Tim long enough."

"My friend Tim," the other replied, "is going to have that job or I'll make mince-meat of you both!"

The driver pointed with his whip to the broken-down, heavy-eyed loafer who was standing on one side with his hands in his pockets, listening to the conversation.

"Is that your pal?" he asked.

"It is," the red-faced man assented, "and if any one's anything to say against him they'd better not say it in my presence, that's all. Up you gets on the wagon, Tim!"

"I beg your pardon," Bliss intervened. "I am engaged for this job."

The red-faced man, his mouth open with surprise which amounted to stupefaction, turned around. It took him a moment or two to grasp the situation. As soon as he did, however, he pulled off his coat with an angry roar and threw it to his friend.

"Now then," he wound up after a stream of hard abuse, "will you 'ook it or will you take a 'iding'?"

"I don't want to fight," Bliss replied, "but this is my job and unless I am told to go by the man who engaged me I shall stick to it."

The green grocer maintained a discreet silence.

The red-faced man came on. He aimed a blow at Bliss which would have killed him if the latter had not ducked. Then he overbalanced himself, recovered and fetched Bliss a blow on the chest which nearly carried him off his feet.

Bliss, who had very little idea of how to use his fists, struck out blindly, and by chance caught the other man on the cheek.

The green-grocer looked around.

"Steady, young 'un," he counseled. "That's butchery. Bill you're up against. He'll kill you if you don't mind. Perhaps you'd better sheer off."

WOMEN PROMISE FOOD ECONOMY; PLAN PROGRAM

LOS ANGELES, June 26.—"Wheatless" meals and "meatless" days were included in the food conservation program adopted by the Los Angeles County Women's Councils of state and national defense which effected a permanent organization after being addressed by Governor William D. Stephens.

The committee adopted this food program. "I am glad to join in the exercise of food conservation for our nation, and I hereby accept membership in the United States food administration, pledging myself to carry out the directions of the food administrator in the control and administration of my household."

The committee's program advocated one wheatless meal each day by substituting corn meal or some other cereal; one meatless day a week and eliminating the use of butter in cooking. The members also were urged to preach the "gospel of the clean plate" and to "get behind Hoover."

The committee urged the use of home products to release freight cars for other uses.

CONFESSION OF MURDERER MADE IN U.S.

NEW YORK, June 26.—The Ruth Cruger murder mystery took a new turn today with the summoning before the grand jury of Father Gaetano Moretti, Italian priest, who admitted to the authorities that Alfredo Cocchi confessed to him just before he escaped to Italy.

The trail to Father Moretti was opened by Bologna reports to local authorities declaring Cocchi told the priest he had shot Cruger in the priest's house in "Chilton street" for two days before he returned to Italy.

District Attorney Swann announced that he expected to have definite evidence today that the police made a determined effort to "shield Cocchi and sidetrack the investigation."

Miss Helen Cruger, 20-year-old sister of the murdered high school girl, told Commissioner Wallsten she called at Chief Detective Inspector Faurot's office shortly after her sister disappeared and asked, without result, that Faurot's office help find Ruth.

Amazing revelations of the working of a Buenos Aires white slave ring that requires 7000 girls every year were made to Mrs. Grace Hamilton, the woman responsible for the finding of Ruth Cruger's body, and Police Inspector Joseph A. Faurot.

Louise Larue, the young woman who declared she leaped from the window of a West Eightieth street apartment house because two detectives working on the Cruger case attacked her for her disclosure to Mrs. Hamilton, furnished the foundation of the white slave plot probe.

CORROBORATES STORY.
Senior Jose A. Del Campo, formerly Chilean consul in Mobile, Ala., corroborated and expanded the exposures made by Miss Larue.

The system is the selling into lives of shame 7000 girls each year through a syndicate of rich men—Del Campo says many of them are millionaires—in Buenos Aires. The former consul asserted these girls were sold in the white slave market for from $1000 to $5000 each. Before the war, he declares, 10 per cent of these girls were sent from the United States by ocean vessels. Last year, according to his story, 64 per cent, or 5000 of the girls, were imported by South America from the United States.

Miss Larue claims that she was a victim of the ring. It required three hours for her to tell her story in the Polytechnic hospital to Mrs. Hamilton and Inspector Faurot. Recently Miss Larue said she was drugged by members of the white slave "gang," who feared they would be exposed by her. When she awoke from the stupor, she declared, she was in a cellar. Two white slaves were with her, accompanied by the men. She said she was led to a grave and made to view the body of a girl.

The grave was in a cellar. She was told it was the body of Ruth Cruger and was warned that if she exposed her captors she would meet the same fate.

CONFESSION PUZZLES.
ROME, June 26.—Bologna authorities today, gathering every possible bit of evidence of Alfredo Cocchi's past life, do not believe that part of his confession that Ruth Cruger died in a fall during the scuffle in Cocchi's shop on 127th street, New York, in which she repulsed the Italian's advances.

American Ambassador Page, who is formally demanding Cocchi's extradition to face a murder charge in New York, is in close touch with the Italian investigation.

The examination of the self-confessed murderer has so far developed a number of contradictions in his story. The Italian authorities have regarded it as unsatisfactory. They hold it does not clear up the exact details of how the 17-year-old girl met her death. If Cocchi's condition permits it he probably will be re-examined and an effort made to establish more fully some of the vague details of Ruth Cruger's visit to Cocchi's shop and of Cocchi's loose references to his attempts to force his love on her.

$1,000,000 DAMAGE FROM FLOOD BREAK

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASD WIRE TO TRIBUNE

SALT LAKE CITY, June 26.—Property damage to railroad trackage, depots and crops estimated to be more than $1,500,000 was the result of the break in the Price river irrigation dam in Gooseberry creek, a tributary to the Price river, twelve miles north-east of Fairview, which began Sunday afternoon and finally resulted in a raging torrent after carrying away the 60-foot wall which impounded more than eleven million acre feet of water.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars of additional damage in loss of traffic will be suffered by the Denver & Rio Grande railroad because of the complete tie-up of the immense coal mines in Carbon county, which depend upon the railroad for an outlet. Thousands of miners will be thrown out of employment until the railroad is able to rebuild from fifteen to thirty miles of track which has been washed away.

Three large steel bridges have been washed out, scores of highway bridges have gone and all concrete culverts in the Price river valley between the dam and Price, a distance of 45 miles, have been destroyed.

D. & R. G. APPEALS

NEW YORK, June 26.—Appeal from a judgment of $38,270.34 recently entered against it in favor of the Equitable Trust Co. of this country was taken today by the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad Company, and the case will now go to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The railroad company asserts that the lower court committed various errors and claims that the contract which formed the basis of the suit had been abrogated.

SHOCK RECORDED

CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 26.—An extremely severe earthquake shock, distance between 4000 and 5000 miles, was recorded today by the seismograph at St. Ignace College.

Father Odenbach said the quake might have been in Chile.

The shock registered from 1:08 a. m. to 3:25 a. m., with the main shock at 1:36.

EUREKA, June 26.—A severe earthquake shock was felt here at 5:30 o'clock this morning. No damage was done.

GREATEST GOLD HOARD IN HISTORY ASSAYED BY U. S.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASD WIRE TO TRIBUNE

NEW YORK, June 26.—The count of what is said to be the greatest hoard of gold ever stored simultaneously in one place in the history of the world, consisting of English, French and American coins and bullion, that have all gone into the melting pot together, totaling $755,000,000, has just been completed at the United States assay office here "without a penny paid."

It was announced today by Edward P. Leach, head of the settlement committee now making the annual inventory and audit of the office.

Verne M. Bowie, superintendent of the office, said bullion now on hand is more than ten times the normal average of previous years. The greatest total prior to the war, he said, was $30,000,000. The year's huge total is attributed to gold imported from the allies to meet war bills and also to abnormal local receipts.

BIG PROFIT MADE IN CANNED GOODS

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Current retail prices on canned vegetables are nearly twice the prices paid canners by wholesalers for this season's output, the Federal trade commission reported today in connection with its investigation into food prices. The inquiry into canned goods, the commission explained, is "to forestall speculative prices."

Wholesalers are paying about 7 1/2 cents a can for corn and about 9 1/2 cents for tomatoes and peas, f. o. b., factory. The same cans are sold retail at an average of 17 cents for corn, 18 cents for peas and 20 cents for tomatoes.

"A large part of the canned goods now being sold at these prices is last year's pack," says a commission statement, and was sold by the canners at considerably lower prices than now prevail.

The statement does not attempt to analyze the difference in prices, but says:

"Next autumn and winter if complaints are made in any locality that unreasonable prices are being charged for the canned peas, corn, tomatoes, salmon or similar products, which are now being packed, the commission will be in a position to promptly expose any extortion."

Reports have been received from about 2000 canning factories in response to the commission's inquiries. The commission will investigate quantities purchased by various dealers in an effort to prevent speculative holding.

PROGRESS AND DELAY.

One billion emergency war credits heavily over-subscribed; two billion liberty war loan over-subscribed by one billion; eligibles for military service registered to the number of 9,660,000; approximately 800,000 men already enlisted in the different branches of the army and navy; over $100,000,000 Red Cross fund; organization of hospital and nursing units proceeding speedily and satisfactorily, with several units already in Europe; the commander and the administrative staff of an army corps already in France, with division of effectives mobilized somewhere in the United States ready for transport to Europe; the people united in the determination to win the war, resolved, without boasting or flamboyance, to support the government with loans and service until victory is achieved.

These are the tangible results of the ten weeks' work since the declaration of war. All things considered, it is not a bad record, and one which possesses many gratifying and satisfactory features. They signify that the country is thoroughly awake, but calm, and contemplating only a victorious decision.

Thus the responsibility of the government to carry on the war speedily, efficiently and successfully is clear and undivided. Every thing the people have been asked to do has been done promptly and without hesitation. But more simple functions belonging exclusively to the government are suffering delay. Beginning of work on the army cantonments for the housing and training of the new soldiers has not actually started, though authority to begin the work was granted several weeks ago. Squabbling continues over the shipbuilding program, the advocates of the all-wooden fleet have made a fresh drive on the administration and the President hesitates to settle the controversy and to grant supreme control—the only efficient method—in one man or one board.

Congress has also shown a lamentable dilatoriness in settling issues that are frankly war issues and regarding which the right course ought not to be difficult to determine. The revenue bill has not been passed. The food control bill has been sent up from the House with a rider that is certain to cause bitter controversy and long delay. Yet Congress and the country knows that if the proposed control of market gambling is to be of any benefit during the present year it must be put into effect before the bulk of the crops are harvested. Instead of making the prohibition of liquor-making during the war a separate issue, the question has been tacked onto the food control measure. Recalling that it was the pacifist and pro-German members of Congress who aided in delaying the selective draft law, the bond issue and the espionage law by inserting a prohibition clause into the debates, it may well be asked whether these same influences are at work on the food control measure.

Congress has been in session eleven weeks now and it cannot be accused of hasty action on any important matter when many bills required prompt and non-partisan consideration. Calm deliberation is a virtue and certainly Congress should not have permitted itself to be carried off its feet by the exuberant and excited patriots who have rushed to Washington with every imaginable device for winning the war quickly. But it can guard against this danger and still work more quickly.

CONSERVATION IN CHARITIES.

The Washington Post calls attention to the fact that a petition signed by men prominent in social service has been presented to the Council of National Defense urging that board to appoint a committee on conservation of social work, in order that a standard for such organizations may be maintained throughout the war. The petitioners state that one of the great needs of social service work today is to avoid duplication and waste of charitable contributions and efforts.

Whether this is a subject properly falling within the scope of work outlined for the Council of National Defense may be debated, but the idea of conservation in social service work is seasonably advanced. Time would be saved and valuable results promoted if this subject was taken up separately by every community. In every city there are certain and practically fixed lists of patrons of char-ties who are called upon periodically to give for the support of their special organizations. Each year the list of donors is the same and also the list of beneficiaries. The regularity with which the faces of certain clients of charities appear for benevolences reminds us that too often charity is "soup without salvation."

Patrons of charities will not suffer any decrease in philanthropic spirit and willingness to give on account of the war, but their ability to give in the same amount to local organizations will in many cases be threatened by high federal taxes and the cost of living. This will of course be deeply regretted, for we have among us many worthy charities which to abandon would be nothing short of a calamity. The work must go on if it is humanly possible to support it.

In this connection conservation in social service will be a tremendous help. In fact, it will be necessary. In all charitable organizations there is the cost of collection, the cost of distribution and the "overhead" charges between. In nearly all these costs may be reduced, and inasmuch as economy must be practiced if the same amount of work is to be performed, this might be made the first objective of conservation and prevention of waste.

Standardization of methods ought to result in some benefit. A conference of charity directors might take up this question and at the same time eliminate duplication of efforts, without waiting for the suggestion of the Council of National Defense. The county and city governments in all communities must give more liberal consideration to the needs of charities during this period and see what can be done to aid private charities, efficiently and economically conducted, in getting over this rocky stretch in the road.

Remember, the Red Cross follows the flag.

When we take into account that in many municipalities it is still a violation of ordinances made and provided for women to appear in public in breeches; and when we remember how recently one so appearing, even when the garment was somewhat modified, created a sensation and provoked vast "rubbering" the vogue of women in frank bifurcated attire that has now obtained may well be astonishing. The war may have had something to do with it—the entrance of women into many vocations that were hitherto filled by men. But a general liberalizing of the point of view must in the main be responsible. Five years ago a woman in breeches at a mountain resort was a sensation. Today at least half of them go thus attired, especially to those resorts where hiking is a feature. It is not foreshadowed that the general or fashionable dress will be thus extremely modified, but it is reasonable to suppose that there will not continue to be that prudishness in situations where some similarity to man's nether garment is manifestly more appropriate.

There is warrant for concluding that the furor over a shortage in the commoner vegetables last season was due to a scare, rather than an actual scarcity. The scare assisted by a partial cornering of the available stocks sent prices up to unheard-of figures. This was particularly so as to onions, and it is probable that the old crop of potatoes was not exhausted when the new crop became available. Scarcity as to these products was never before known in this country, at least in the degree that people were led to believe existed. The future, occurring in the tenuous strain of the war situation, when all sorts of predictions were made as to the food situation, afforded a psychological opportunity for the food speculator. When another such situation occurs a prompt Federal investigation would be desirable, the published result of which would reassure, or at least accurately inform, the public as to the exact status. And as to the men who get up such corners, some progress would seem to be possible toward their punishment, or at least toward thwarting their designs.

Notwithstanding the laws that have been and are being enacted by federal and State legislatures to curb trusts and combinations in food products, we are advised of a very comprehensive plan for a candy trust that is to reach from here to Wisconsin. If such a proposition is carried through it will be primarily a matter between the owners of established businesses and the promoters of the scheme; ultimately it will affect the public in some measure, though not perhaps appreciably. Candy has passed from the domain of luxury to that of necessity. This fact is recognized in the military service, where it has come to figure as a part of the supplies sent with troops to far-away points. But the chief end of this proposed trust seems to be the enrichment of those engaged in organizing it. This is not important to the mighty multitude concerned as purchasers of the commodity; and the proprietors of going factories will no doubt require a definite showing as to where their advantage comes in before falling for the proposition.

There is no doubt that the influence of the United States on Russia will be a very great factor in steadying her. There has always been a friendly feeling between the two peoples. There might be ground to distrust the disinterestedness, in whole or in part, of any other country's expressed solicitude for a great people so suddenly and dramatically relieved from autocratic domination, but there can be no object in this country's efforts to help them to stability except a desire to see them fully emancipated and on their way to successful self-government. The embassy sent to assure them of this fact, headed by Elihu Root, from the reports of progress that have been received, is evidently making gratifying headway.

NOTES and COMMENT

It is all right for O'Connor to come over and inform us of the Irish situation, but the German situation is now the important thing. Unless that is reduced to a satisfactory status there will be no other situation of any enduring kind for anybody.

The optometrists are very welcome, with the hope that they will find things to their comfort and satisfaction. Such organizations and associations are coming more and more to find this city a congenial place to foregather.

The mayor of San Francisco attempted to pare down the budget by vetoing the job of Clerk Forbes, but couldn't manage even that. It is thus seen how hard it is for a high functionary to enforce far-reaching economy in the public service.

The acting head of the university, in setting his foot down so firmly against a raffle for the Red Cross, takes a highly virtuous stand, perhaps but if he should have more liberally considered the occasion, which certainly is unusual, no one would have taken it to his discredit. Such an occasion as the raising of money for the Red Cross justifies a slight variation from the rigid path, and such variation is not likely to take status as a precedent.

Just as the over-subscription by more than a billion dollars of the Liberty loan afforded a striking illustration of the country's resources, so does the outpouring of money for the Red Cross evince its patriotism.

The envoys from countries at war that have come and are coming here for succor and encouragement afford striking evidence that this country has become the great reliance in the struggle to save the world from the Hun. Also that in the readjustment, when peace shall have been won, the counsel of this nation will not only be listened to but sought.

There is a hint that must be disgusting to slackers—that they will be put at work from which they cannot get away, and which will entail physical ordeals such as mere soldiering would not approach—stoking on government ships in the submarine zone, for instance.

The world has been edited by the news that Captain Bradenburg, who commanded the recent air raid, on London by which a large number of women and children were killed or wounded, has been decorated with the Order of Merit by the Kaiser. An idea of the modern German notion of a worthy action is thus obtained.

We are repeatedly assured that the Russians will stand firm. It was important to know this at first, but there is such a thing as standing firm too long. A forward movement toward the enemy's line is now due.

Particulars are wanting in the descriptions of the destruction by an explosion of the Morro, or more modernly, Fort Cabanas, at the entrance to the harbor of Havana. All who have seen this useless, though ponderous and picturesque, labyrinth of masonry will be interested.

OUR PHYSICAL DEFICIENCY

The estimate that 50 per cent of the men who registered are physically deficient by army standards gives us a shock. We immediately recall our athletic prowess in international events. We insist we can run, because we hold every world record for a mile or under. We insist we can jump and hurdle, because with two exceptions we have captured all these records. We proudly cite our successes in the Olympic games.

The great sports like football and baseball are absorbing interests in our life. We flock to the games and we think of ourselves as an athletic nation.

Well, a few of us are athletic, but the majority are not. Our system has not fostered physical training for the average man. We have devoted our attention to exclusive and intensive training instead of to inclusive and extensive training. We always had an eye to the spectacular event, and we trained the more virile and more muscular boys because they were better material for the purpose.

In this way we developed the best athletes in the world. But we allowed the majority of our boys to shift for themselves in the matter of physical development. After the sorting process was over our schools and colleges proceeded to forget about everybody except those who least needed physical training. It is true the club was permitted to go in for all the sports he liked, but his inferiority was too pronounced, and in nine cases out of ten he soon lost interest.

We seem to have no genius for the German and Swedish systems of training. We don't care for exercise as exercise; we want a hippodrome spectacle. An American turn-of-mind is almost unthinkable.

Yet the general adoption of the army setting-up exercises, which embody the German and Swedish ideas, would cure our physical deficiency quicker than anything else. It isn't very important that a particular American is physically superior to every Russian, but it is highly important that the average American should be physically superior to the average Russian. If we spent as much time in the work of gymnastic societies as we do going to ball games we could work better and fight better.—Chicago Tribune.

MODERN IDEALISM

Listen, kiddoes, and you shall hear Of the racing ride of Paul Revere. It was some ride. He did the slide. Way out to Lexington. From Boston town He tangoed down And there was heaps of fun.

He put the foe right on the blink; They had to do the kitchen sink. In double time. Oh, it was prime! The farmers didn't lag. They soon got hep And how they'd step That revolution rag! —Louisville Courier-Journal.

ONE WAY TO END THE WAR.

WHALE STEAKS

With a perfectly straight face the blubber hunters of Oregon and Washington are beseeching the world to eat whale, and wild is the joy among paragraphs. Not content with praising blubber and crying facetiously, "Pass the whale," they recall that whales are mammals and would have our submarines go forth at once and milk them. In a less frisky mood, they crack a better joke still. Whale hide, they argue, should make excellent leather. Well, so it would, except that a whale's "hide" is hardly thicker than the skin of a pear.

For our own part, we see more than a joke in the plan to utilize whale meat as food. Old sea dogs describe it as very much like pork. The Japanese find it palatable and nutritious. In Norway it makes first rate sausages. The only serious difficulty about eating whale meat is the difficulty of obtaining whales, for whaling is at present a seven-eighths dead industry. New Bedford, once the home of rich whalers, now sends out only about one whaling vessel a year.

Also anxiety came to grief when petroleum products supplanted whale oil. Miners' lanterns still use whale oil, it is true, and it is now used as a lubricant aboard naval craft. Here and there, notably off the coast of Norway and Newfoundland, whales are still hunted. But one may cross the ocean many times without seeing a whale, though whales abound and are seen frequently. The fact is they have increased and multiplied during the period of the industry's decline. In certain watery regions they are a positive nuisance. A great deal of valuable ammunition intended for submarine killing has been wasted in unintentional whale killing.—Chicago Tribune.

WOULD BE PATRIOTIC.

The Steel Trust and the du Pont Powder Company both declared special dividends out of war profits with the purpose of encouraging shareholders to contribute their share to the $100,000,000 Red Cross fund. Will the food speculators reduce their prices for a few days only in order to make it easier for the average consumer to do his bit in the same good cause?—New York World.

TODAY 20 YEARS AGO

The Realty Syndicate bought out the interest in the Alameda and Oakland Railway Company.

Attorney G. W. Baker returned from Nevada, where he was engaged in the District Court representing the Eastern heirs in the celebrated Foley case.

Clarence Kempff, U. S. N., was ordered north to the battleship Oregon. Mrs. Warren English stayed several weeks at Vancouver, B. C., visiting her daughter, Mrs. Edward Mallins, nee Hattie English.

GERMAN MUD-HEADEDNESS.

A compilation of German opinion on the prospects of victory shows that England is the bulwark that cannot be shaken off after it has closed its jaws, but that nevertheless it will be shaken off in two months (Herr von Heydebrand) or in about another year (Kolnische Zeitung) or nobody knows when, and it is foolish to prophesy (Count von Reventlow). It would also appear that "several weeks ago it was supposed that when certain things had happened on the sea and land the war would have ended" (Reventlow). But since these things have not come to pass, since the U-boats have not triumphed on sea and Russia has not made a separate peace on land, the war has become more serious (Reventlow) and therefore Germany must insist on a heavy indemnity (Herr von Rheinholdt, finance minister of Baden). Now it might be possible to take the press and public men of any other belligerent country and discover a similar babel of opinion and out of logic, but for Germany this is the unity of confidence and perfection of reason upon which she based her challenge to America. The German people has been asked to stake its all, in Bethmann-Hollweg's phrase, on a "sure thing," which has resulted as betting of that kind usually does. The marvellous argumentative resources of the German mind which were mobilized to prove, first, that America would not come in and Russia would step out, and, second, that England would be beaten before America could come in or Russia decided not to step out, is now being concentrated to prove that England will be beaten after America comes in and Russia has decided to stick.—New York Evening Post.

NEW COMPANY TO BUILD SIX STEEL SHIPS

With contracts already on hand for the construction of six steel government ships awarded by the federal shipping board at an aggregate construction cost of $9,000,000, the Hollywood Shipbuilding Company, composed mostly of Oakland men, has filed articles of incorporation in this county and is completing plans for an extensive plant to be in operation within ninety days.

The personnel of the new company includes David Hollywood, prominent northwestern shipbuilder, who is its head, Frank J. Woodward, Arthur Arlett, E. C. Frazier, J. F. Carlston, Hiram Johnson Jr. and Clarence J. Berry. As a preliminary move the new concern has acquired twenty-six acres of land at the foot of Twenty-third avenue, with a frontage of 1000 feet on the tidal canal, at a cost estimated at $850,000, where the main ships and ways of the company will be located.

The new company is capitalized for $1,000,000. Arrangements are being made by a corps of engineers already on the ground for the erection of machine shops, marine ways, engine rooms, offices and all the plant accessories of a big institution. More than 3500 men will be employed at the plant, which will have an industrial payroll, according to expectations, in excess of $150,000 monthly.

Work on the government contracts will be begun as soon as possible. The contracts, which were received yesterday, cover six steel ships of 8300 ton capacity, to be completed by January 1 of next year. The vessels will be used as cargo carriers and are to be a portion of the great American merchant marine which the federal government is fostering.

"This is one of the biggest enterprises that has been established in Oakland in years," declared Frank J. Woodward, prominent real estate man and one of the incorporators, today. "Hollywood, who is to supervise this shipbuilding program, has had wide experience in ship construction in various parts of the country. The steel for these vessels has already been contracted for and work on both the plant and the ships is to be rushed forward. We represent an infant industry, but one that has come to stay. We are adding a large payroll and intend to increase that before the year is out to larger proportions."

Greater attention than ever is now given to the prescribing and making of proper glasses, for it is a positively established fact that a person cannot do their best mental work when the eyes are strained. Every one should have accurate and suitable glasses, but they do not always realize how important it is to have them exactly right—not the "very near right" kind. Unsuitable glasses are a great handicap to those whose work depends largely upon their eyes. Eyes Dimmed as Old Glory Flashes First in France

HONOR GIVEN UNIT FROM CALIFORNIA

Graphic details of the stirring reception given by the soldiers of France to the first American flag sanctioned by the United States government to be carried on the French battle front are contained in a letter to his parents, Dr. and Mrs. John Snook of Berkeley, from Donald Snook, who is a member of the first Stanford ambulance unit in France. After receiving the government's permission the Stanford men took the flag to French soil.

Here "Old Glory" was unfurled with martial ceremony before an assemblage of thousands of French soldiers and their American comrades. As the "Star-Spangled Banner" was played by the regimental band and the Stars and Stripes were held aloft, Snook writes, "There wasn't one in that whole line of Americans who could hold his eyes wide open, tears actually rolled down some of our cheeks."

As Snook and his Stanford comrades, Roland Speers and Nicholas of Palo Alto, who were deputed to carry (Continued on Page 14, Col. 4)

REGENTS OF MARKET IN BIG TUMBLE

King Potato and his consort, Queen of all the Onions, have lost their thrones. The revolution was bloodless. No lives were lost. Once upon a time—last winter, to be explicit—these two products, once of the people, rose to heights out of the imagination, and before many weeks had passed were crowned leaders of the produce market.

Potatoes didn't fall below the 5-cent mark on the pound until several months ago. Onions fell sharply from $12 a sack one memorable week to a weaker level. Despite their fall, however, they held on to their thrones until recently. Today, new California potatoes are selling wholesale at the 2 and 2 1/2 cent mark a pound. Onions are going at wholesale for one cent, and less per pound.

In the commission district the two products are piled high, awaiting purchasers from retail dealers. But purchasers are not so numerous as to bid the prices up. California supplies flowing from growing grounds and into Oakland and San Francisco markets. Commission men feel that the public is at fault for not purchasing such large quantities. They predict that the winter demand will be as great this year as last and that a clamor will again arise if potatoes and onions advance because of increased demand.

And so, despite the fact that King Potato and his consort, Queen of all the Onions have abdicated, predictions that their exile is not a long one are freely made along commission row. Commission men say that by winter the backyard gardens in thousands of Alameda county homes will have stopped producing and householders' demands will jump prices again.

CITY SCORED FOR LAXITY IN CAMPAIGN

"The results of the campaign are disgraceful, when considered from a standpoint of the absence of large subscriptions," said A. S. Lavenson. "Those who could be expected to contribute small amounts have apparently done their duty; but when you find that of the 100 and 250 opposite the names of people known to be worth from a quarter of a million to two million dollars, one cannot help but pity them in their poverty, and feel ashamed of the city in which they live."

"I never heard so many cheap excuses, or such beggerly reasoning as I listened to from some of our wealthiest men and women. The stories of distress were palling. For one thing, the city is not a pauper."

"One man could not contribute because he was out of business. Another could not contribute because he had just bought a business. A man said that contributions were not necessary now; that he would give when it was necessary to do so. I suppose he felt like the man who was willing to buy the coffin, but refused to help save the victim's life."

"One man refused to contribute because the DuPont Powder Company, in which he was a large stockholder, had deducted one per cent from his dividends to be devoted to the Red Cross. This is interesting because of the fact that the DuPont Powder stock has recently advanced from $10 to $700 a share, and declared dividends of over $90,000,000."

"Another party could not contribute because he had just bought a new home in Tahoe. Another party had just bought a lot of real estate, but the one that capped the climax was the one who could not contribute because he pays $13,000 a year in taxes. A prominent business man told me that he was a member of the Red Cross, but he was not willing to contribute more than the Germans march down Broadway. In the meantime the wage-earner, the servant girl, the small business man, comes forward with $5, $10, $20, $50 and $100 contributions."

"In this kind of work, it is to be regretted in this kind of work, and that is that the scoffers, and the lagers, and the slackers, cannot all be placed into one community and suffer the consequences of their indifference without causing injury to the rest of the people who are doing their best."

"We have some real Americans in Oakland, but I find that the places that had the most American flags and red, white and blue decorations in front of their establishments, were the ones that gave the least in proportion to their ability to give."

TRIBUTE IS PAID MILLER'S MEMORY

Tributes to the genius of the poet of the Sierra were paid by men and women of Oakland last evening at a dinner given in the Hotel Oakland by Miss Juanita Miller, daughter of Joaquin Miller, to some sixty friends who had been friends of her famous father during his lifetime. Colonel John P. Irish presided as toastmaster at the gathering.

Among those who responded to toast was Mrs. Henry Weatherhead, one of Oakland's pioneer women, who related many interesting reminiscences of the poet. She told of one occasion when she had heard that Joaquin was dead, and when she had gone laden with floral offerings to the poet's beautiful surroundings. The foundation of the cabin, built by Miller himself, was composed of stones left over from the Washington monument. In this log cabin, Miller entertained a resident Cleveland, Frederick Arthur, Chief Justice Field and other distinguished men.

"The 'Highgate' as a portion of the municipal park system, he declared that its advertising value to the city would be far more than its material cost. In other communities, he said, particularly in Southern California, such a spot as the home of the poet could be made the scene of a national pleasure ground, and suggested that Oakland inaugurate such an annual festival in memory of the man who has brought world-wide fame to the city."

Fred Emerson Brooks, the Oakland poet, read the following original poem written for the occasion:

TO JOAQUIN MILLER.
O, tell me Joaquin if your vision was right,
The songs are immortal you sang from the heights
Did your Muse lead you straight to the infinite light
When the journey was done?
Send a message by wireless that we can translate
With a hint of God's Glory you sang us to
Can you say to the world and the millions
"Sail on, sail on."

And the song that returns with its rhythmic lore
Bears the ill and the rhyme and the heart of yore
And the seraphs are listening still, as he sings
To the singer that's gone.
He is waiting from yonder where time leaves wing
And eternally waits on the will of the King
Singing: "Death is a phantom and there, before I sing
"Sail on, sail on."

"The creator whose wonders I sought to portray
Those marvelous beauties no pen can convey
Is Joaquin, the God whom the Heavens obey
Whom we worship anon."

FRENCH SOLDIERS THANK WOMEN IN KIDNAPING CASE

From the Hospital Jardin Colonial at Nogent (Sur Marne) in France has come a letter of thanks to the "ladies of Oakland, California," for the comfort bags made at the Home Club around last Christmas time by a score or more of prominent women.

This letter, which was received by Mrs. E. Devin, 515 Thirty-eighth street, is from Mrs. Emily Pleasants Fox, who is assisting in the hospital, as many American women are assisting abroad during this period of war. The letter is in French from the doctor at the head of the hospital staff.

The letter reads as follows:
Hospital Jardin Colonial,
Nogent (Sur Marne), France.
June 2, 1917.
To the Ladies of Oakland, California, U. S. A.

Please accept the sincere thanks of the wounded at Le Jardin Colonial for the beautiful bags you sent to them. I wish you could have seen the pleasure each bag has given to each wounded man.

Most sincerely,
EMILY PLEASANTS FOX.

Will you kindly give this message of thanks to the ladies of Oakland?
This postal card from Dr. H. Bressvey is as follows:
Madame: J'ai l'honneur de vous adresser mes remerciements à ceux de Madame Fox, mon infirmière, pour toute la joie que vous avez répandue parmi nos braves blessés.

Vous et les Dames Américaines qui se paquets, veuillez agréer mes vœux de la toute ma gratitude et de mes respectueux hommages.

H. BRESSVEY, Medecin-chef.

A rough translation of this note is, Madame: I have the honor to join thanks to those of Madame Fox, my nurse, for all the joy that you have spread among our brave wounded. You have done a good deed—and you and the American ladies who joined with you in sending the packages.

Accept with my expression of all my gratitude, my respectful homage,
H. BRESSVEY, Head Physician.

ASKS LIST OF CONTRIBUTIONS ACROSS BAY

Mrs. Mark L. Requa, seeking to determine what percentage of Oakland residents contributed to the Red Cross in San Francisco, sent the following telegram to F. G. Drum this morning:
"F. G. Drum, Esq., Executive Commander, Red Cross Fund, San Francisco: Oakland is greatly behind in her allotment for the national Red Cross subscription, owing largely to people living here and having given in San Francisco."

"As San Francisco has over-subscribed its allotment I earnestly request that a public statement be made by the Red Cross headquarters in your city, naming the proportion of subscriptions made there by people living in Oakland and having subscribed in San Francisco."

"Being myself a native of San Francisco and having its interest at heart, I personally have no motive in making this appeal save that of fairness and mitigating the great disappointment of those citizens who have labored hard and given liberally in their home town."

"Having worked in charitable causes for many years past, I feel in a position to know the situation, and would greatly appreciate your co-operation in this matter."

"My family have contributed to this cause, very truly,
"MRS. MARK REQUA.

TO CURB RETURN OF UNSOLD BREAD

In an effort to get wholesale bakers to refuse to take back unsold bread from retailers, the County Council of Defense today delegated Sheriff Frank Barnett as a committee of one to interview the breadmakers in an effort to get them to sign an agreement to return unsold bread to the county during the duration of the war as a food conservation measure. There are thirteen firms in the county who do a wholesale business, by this method the council hopes to make a great saving on bread.

EXPLAINS POET.

James denied most emphatically that Miller merited the epithet "poet" applied to him by those who did not appreciate his picture-making and individual peculiarities. He declared that the man was sincere and earnest in his life and utterances. He concluded his lecture with a stirring reading of Miller's "Columbus."

Mrs. Goldie Hulin presented two charming vocal solos, "Judge Not" and "God's Garden," and in her third number—a duet, "Only One Today"—she was joined by Miss Juanita Miller. Miss Bessie Beatty was the accompanist.

RICHMOND POLICE CHIEF IS ACCUSED

RICHMOND, June 26. — Controversy over the conduct of the police department between Chief of Police Charles H. Walker and former Inspector Virgil Phillips, whom the chief recently dismissed from the department, will come to a climax Friday evening when the City Council will consider affidavits charging Walker with incompetence and drunkenness. The affidavits were filed last yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Clara Wilson, president of the Richmond Women's Christian Temperance Union and by a number of former members of the department and Sergeant Eliza Jennings, attorney for the Christians of Oakland and Bernard Johnson.

At the time Virgil Phillips was dismissed from the department he made an assertion that he himself would prefer charges of drink and incompetence against Chief Walker. He, however, appears in this case as having made an affidavit, in which he tells of his day in the department since his disagreement with Chief Walker over the dismissal of Mrs. Clara Wilson from the force two years ago.

ASK PUBLIC HEARING.

The affidavits ask that instead of private hearings, as in the past, a public hearing be held immediately and, if the charges are sustained, that Chief Walker be discharged from the department.

This latest fight to dislodge Walker is another stage in a long battle in which members of the department and former members who have been discharged have tried unsuccessfully to oust him.

Mrs. Wilson, in her affidavit, tells of how, while on patrol duty in the vicinity of Lettman's saloon on March 20, he saw Walker drive up to the saloon and go into the place drunk and staggering. Later, Betts continued, he saw Walker dancing around the bar-room "like a wild Indian," and saw him drink a drink over the bar for himself and for some women who were in the saloon. Walker, she charges, humiliated seven specific charges against Walker in her complaint. They are:

"That Charles H. Walker is incompetent as chief of police of this city."

"That he has repeatedly brought disgrace and discredit upon the city of Richmond by his drunken and disorderly conduct."

"That he has in the past committed perjury while under oath to tell the truth."

"That he has in the past committed subornation of perjury in that he has solicited others to testify falsely."

"That he has repeatedly violated the city ordinances of the city of Richmond."

"That he has purchased and drank intoxicating liquors with women in saloons in the city of Richmond after closing hours."

"That he has driven his automobile on the city streets of the city of Richmond under the influence of liquor, in violation of the state law."

TOLD IN AFFIDAVITS.

Sergeant Jennings, at present a sergeant in the department, alleges in his affidavit that while in a San Francisco hospital Walker had him write out a report against former Detective Fred Eigenmann of the department and that later photographs of many San Francisco passenger machines are in the detective's hands and efforts will be made to identify the assailants.

According to the story told by the girls they had just left a cinema road show at the Methodist Church, Sixth and Howard streets, and took the supposed jitney for the ferry building. Instead of taking them to the ferry the driver and another man kidnapped them. The girls, who were taken to Golden Gate Park and attacked. They fought back their assailants successfully and managed to escape.

The head of San Francisco's detective bureau is questioning the girls to find out what details they may bear fruit in arrests. Pictures of all jitney buses with wire wheels are being shown the girls. They told the police Saturday morning that the jitney had wire wheels. Chauffeurs' photographs of many San Francisco passenger machines are in the detective's hands and efforts will be made to identify the assailants.

Attorney Christian, who represented Johnson in a suit recently tried in the federal court, filed in his affidavit that Walker was drunk about the courtroom while the litigants were waiting for the jury to come in.

Fred Eigenmann, the discharged officer, also filed an affidavit, telling of the circumstances surrounding his dismissal.

BELGIAN TO TALK

BERKELEY, June 26. — The exiled Belgian scholar, Professor Leon Dupriez of the chair of law in the University of Louvain, Belgium, will give his second lecture at the summer session of the University of California in 11 Wheeler Hall on "Parliamentary Government." Professor Dupriez will give his last lecture at 5 o'clock Friday evening.

S. P. GIVES SIDE OF PIER DISPUTE

W. R. Scott, vice-president and general manager of the Southern Pacific Co., has made the following statement concerning the controversy between the company and the city of Oakland:

"On November 23, 1910, after many years of controversy and litigation between the city of Oakland and the Southern Pacific Co., a general agreement of differences was made between the city of Oakland and this company. Pursuant to the water front settlement the Southern Pacific Co. has agreed to give up all such lands to the city as it had agreed to relinquish. In the general settlement the Southern Pacific Co. agreed, among other things, to demolish Long wharf on or about November 20, 1913, and to construct in lieu thereof a new wharf parallel with Oakland mole and 200 feet southerly therefrom. This wharf would cost the company something in the neighborhood of $500,000."

"ENGINEERS FILE PLANS."
In January, 1917, our engineers, on account of the improved methods of wharf construction since the date of our franchise, recommended a change in the plan of construction of this wharf suggesting that instead of one long pier, it would be preferable to construct six comparatively short piers diagonally across the same area in a generally southerly direction. This would increase our contemplated expenditure by about $1,000,000, and the improvement would inure to the benefit of the city of Oakland."

"We, therefore, submitted to the city of Oakland about February 1, 1917, a plan showing the revised wharf plan, asking the city whether it would care to have the company adopt the same. Although the city at that time refused to accept the plan, we have been unable to secure any expression of the wishes of the city in the matter and as a result, of course, the improvements are at a standstill."

"There are, therefore, two propositions before the city of Oakland, viz.: The city has been asked to state whether it would desire to have this company proceed with the construction of the improvements according to the revised wharf plan, or the great additional investment which the company has offered to make upon the property which will revert to the city at the expiration of the franchise, and which will therefore inure to the public benefit; or whether the city will prefer to extend the time for removal of Long wharf and execute to the company a lease therefor in the meantime."

"On account of the very limited time and on account of the magnitude of the improvements involved, unless these propositions are determined at once by the city of Oakland, this company will have no alternative except to withdraw its offers altogether and proceeding to protect its rights by the construction of a wharf of a somewhat obsolete type as prescribed by the water front franchise of November 23, 1910."

OPTOMETRISTS CLOSE SESSION

Choosing Los Angeles for the next meeting place and closing a two-days session of routine business with a luncheon as the guests of the Chamber of Commerce, the California State Association of Optometrists today ended the eleventh annual convention of the body at the Hotel Oakland.

The following officers were elected for 1918: President, E. A. Hutchinson, Los Angeles; vice-president, J. J. Jessup, Los Angeles; secretary, Glen Winslow, Los Angeles; sergeant-at-arms, Miss Myrtle Hodgpeith, Pomona; treasurer, Samuel Pons, Los Angeles; delegates, Carl Van Bredon, Louis Jaques and C. M. Stevenson.

The following were chosen delegates to the national convention which convenes in Columbus, O., next month: C. D. Muiet, retiring president, Oakland; H. DeWitts, Los Angeles; W. M. Kinney, Los Angeles; George L. Schneider, Berkeley; Dr. E. C. Bull, Pasadena; and Dr. J. M. Crawford, Fresno.

The convention closed its session today with the passage of several resolutions among which was one recommending the establishment of a government rating for optometrists who are ex-members of recruits for Army and Navy service. At the convention banquet held in the Hotel Oakland last night, Professor J. P. C. Southall of Columbia University and Dr. Milton E. Landis of this city were the principal speakers. It was recommended that a chair of optometry be established at the University of California to further the work in this state.

John Forsythe, president of the State Board of Examiners in Optometry, was the principal speaker at today's luncheon.

PENNOYER AND BRIDE COME TO WEST FOR VISIT

Because Mrs. A. A. Pennoyer could not go to the Atlantic coast to be present at the wedding of her son, Paul Geddes Pennoyer, and Miss Frances Morgan, the young couple have come west on their honeymoon. They have joined Mrs. Pennoyer at the Fairmount, where Sheldon Johnson is also of the party.

The marriage of the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan and the former Oakland boy was a brilliant event at Saturday, June 16, taking place at the Morgan estate on Long Island. The bridegroom's mother, who has been in California since the early year, was not able to cross the continent for the ceremony because of illness. She has been convalescing in Saratoga. However, the wedding was sufficiently recovered to return to San Francisco and join the party.

Whether the younger Pennoyers will remain long enough for the smart set to do much for them in a social way has not been announced. The family were pioneer residents of Oakland, where the late A. A. Pennoyer founded one of the important retail firms. Many of the society leaders here are numbered with their intimates.

One bride is a niece of Miss Anne Morgan, who is giving all her energies and wealth to the defense work in the East.

ETIQUETTE CAUSE OF BANK QUARREL

BERKELEY, June 26. — Pomp and circumstance as rigid as obtains in the army are alleged by those who today are conceiving a possible quarrel between President Burrell G. White of the Berkeley Trust Co. and the University of California, one of its directors and a member of the University of California agricultural college faculty. President White is alleged to be based on the fact that President White appealed to Dean Thomas Forsythe Hunt of the agricultural college for information needed by the bank instead of making his request through Professor Mead.

Professor Mead is out of Berkeley today and could not be interviewed. President White declares he has received no intimation that Professor Mead feels aggrieved. Professor Mead's associates in the university declare he has made no comment to them in criticism of President White's action.

ANOTHER BUMP.

Meanwhile affairs at the bank rode over their second bump today when James Perkins was appointed chief clerk to succeed A. R. Duke, resigned. President White explains that Duke, who had been in his office but ten days, had not met satisfactory progress and that his resignation was requested in the interest of efficiency. A previous resignation from the staff of the bank was that of G. A. Reed, the secretary, who was succeeded by W. A. Joyce. Reed's resignation also was requested, it is declared, as a result of representations made by White to the authorities at Washington that the work of his office was not being satisfactorily conducted.

The alleged break of President White with Professor Mead was expected today either to come to a head or be adequately explained away at the meeting of the directors which is scheduled for next Monday. The information desired by President White was said to require a complete change in various portions of California, such information being needed as a basis for the proper judgment regarding the bank's future.

The need for such information had already been discussed with members of the agricultural college faculty, including Mead. President White declared, therefore, that he hardly thought it necessary to take the matter up a second time with Professor Mead and so sent Chief Appraiser A. W. Hendricks directly to Dean Hunt, in whose office the desired information was to be obtained.

"We are conducting a big business institution here," said President White. "We have 10,000 applications with 100 associations, organizations and orders of Washington to speed up the making of loans until we are averaging $1,000,000 a month. What we have to do, under such circumstances, is necessarily hurriedly done or not at all. We wanted this information in a hurry, and I sent Hendricks to get it. I meant no offense to Professor Mead and I believe none has been taken by him."

MAYOR FOR CITY AND COUNTY, PLAN

Declaring that a consolidated city and county government for Oakland would reduce taxation about thirty-five per cent, that it would tend to greater efficiency in administration by placing all executive authority in one head and that it will result in making the city more attractive to manufacturers and investors, Mayor John L. Davis has issued a public message, giving his reasons why he favors a change in the present form of government. In the message he lays stress upon two points—the duplication of offices in the present method and the division of authority in the city government, where there are five executive heads.

"All Oakland taxpayers," reads the message, "maintain their city government and pay in addition 58.53 percent, of above taxes, of the cost of running the county government. Last year the maintenance of the City Assessor's and Tax Collector's offices cost the taxpayers of Oakland the sum of $7,281. For the same period the County Assessor's and Tax Collector's offices required $122,327.40, of which sum Oakland contributed $63,968.19, or nearly $2000 more than they paid for the city work."

"It is costing the City of Oakland about $500 a year to run a purchasing department. The county is required to pay $13,351.55 of that amount—over three times as much as they pay for their own municipal purchasing department."

"In a corresponding way, the taxpayers of Oakland are maintaining two auditors' offices, two treasurers' offices and two legislative bodies at a total cost of $111,100 a year, meaning that, of the $2,340,000 which it requires to run Alameda county, the Oakland taxpayers contribute $1,228,900."

"A consolidated city and county of Oakland is the real issue today. Agitators and politicians always try to defeat such worthy issues by instituting tangent movements to disrupt and confuse. They are doing this now by an endeavor to create sentiment favoring a consolidation including the cities of Berkeley, Alameda, Piedmont and Emeryville. The moment this annexation question arises, another issue is raised with bitter opposition. Why run the risk of losing the consolidation of Oakland by connecting it with a proposition entirely foreign to the original motive? Let us make Oakland a consolidated city and county first. Out of a total county registration of 122,000 voters, Oakland has 72,000 or 11,000 more than the majority needed to secure a consolidated city and county of Oakland. Let us then use this majority to effect the main issue, and then if these other cities desire admission, Oakland will gladly welcome them."

The message goes with considerable detail into the economies which have been effected by the present administration and discusses at length the disadvantages of the commission form of government, which leaves the mayor with the least power of any one of the five administration heads.

HAIR SAVES MAN FROM ACCUSERS

MODESTO, June 26.—Maurice Goff, Ripon butcher, who has been in jail here since last Wednesday, charged with the murder of Earl Polley, manager of the Bank of Keyes, has been literally saved from the gallows by the hair of his head.

Theodore Kytko, the San Francisco expert criminologist, has decided that

FIREMEN TO FORM CLUB; WILL ASK IMPROVEMENTS

TRIBUNE BUREAU
SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—A club composed of 50 business men and the local firemen of this city, to foster the interests of the fire-fighters, is in course of formation here.

The hair found in the mask left behind by the murderer and robber is not that of Goff, and Sheriff Davis now says that Goff's innocence is firmly established. He will be brought into court for examination and discharged.

OIL OUTLOOK MAY CUT S. P. SERVICE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—Train schedules on the Southern Pacific will soon be reduced unless larger supplies of oil can be obtained at a reasonable price, according to testimony of General Manager W. R. Scott before the State Railroad Commission. Scott asserted that the situation is serious, and unless conditions are changed for the better, some trains will be discontinued in thirty days, others in sixty days and still more in three months.

The statements were made at a hearing of the request recently made by the transportation company for an increase of 15 per cent in freight rates—a request in which all California railroads concur. As an additional reason, he stated that the company will soon be compelled to grant an eight-hour day to employees other than those in the four brotherhoods.

It was upon the oil situation, however, that he laid stress. He declared that the estimated increase in oil cost in 1917 was the difference between the contract price in 1916—70 cents a barrel—and the present price—$1.50 a barrel. He said that the Kern Trading & Oil Company, a subsidiary corporation of the Southern Pacific, would soon increase its price because of the increased cost of production plus the cost of transportation by pipe line or carriers independent of the Southern Pacific to the point where the railroad loads its tanks.

The supply in the oil fields is not adequate to demand, said Scott. While the Southern Pacific consumption was estimated at 40,000 barrels a day, it has increased by 4,000 barrels during the last six weeks. Scott stated that 26,000 barrels are furnished by the K. T. O. and the balance purchased in the open market.

Questions by President Thelen and Commissioner Gordon elicited from Scott the statement that the company had endeavored to meet the oil shortage by searching for coal supplies. No supply worthy of serious consideration had been found, he declared.

The investigation of the State Railroad Commission into the matter of the petition of twenty-six California railroads for a 15 per cent increase is expected to be concluded tomorrow. Officials of a score of the smaller roads and suburban electric lines in all parts of the State told today of the increased cost of operation and of the need for greater revenue. Opportunity is being given for each railroad to present its own evidence, and the disclosures of today seem to indicate that the short haul lines are suffering from scarcity of labor and increased expenses to an even greater degree than the transcontinental railroads.

TO RECOVER STEEL.
VALLEJO, June 26.—It is stated that efforts will be made to recover two steel plates which were lost overboard from one of the vessels at Mare Island last Saturday morning.

6 MORE SUFFRAGE PICKETS ARRESTED

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE
WASHINGTON, June 26.—Six women, giving their names as Mrs. Annie Arnel of Wilmington, Del.; Miss Maude Jamieson, of Norfolk, Va.; Miss Virginia Arnold, of Asheville, N. C.; Miss Lavinia Dock, of Philadelphia; Miss Hazel Hunkins, of Billings, Mont.; and Miss Gladys Ryner, of Baltimore, were arrested today when they attempted to carry militant suffragist banners to the gates of the White House. All were released for appearance in court later.

Twelve suffragists, including Miss Bertha Crone, of San Francisco, were arrested yesterday when an attempt was made to stage another demonstration in front of the White House. Thousands of government clerks were leaving their offices, and for a time the police were overwhelmed by a lightning rally which attempted to destroy the White House.

At police headquarters the women were booked on charges of violating the law and order code of the district, and were registered as follows:

Miss Katherine Agnes Morey, 25, Brookline, Mass.; Miss Leah Neil, aged 40, Wilmington, Del.; Miss Florence Youmans, aged 30, Winona, Minn.; Miss Mabel Vernon, aged 33, Reno, Nev.; Miss Pauline Clark, aged 28, Washington; Miss Elizabeth Stuyvesant, aged 26, New York; Miss Lucy Burns, aged 31, Washington; Mrs. Helen Evans Scott, aged 51, Baltimore; Miss Lavinia Dock, aged 59, Fayetteville, Pa.; Miss Maude Jamieson, aged 27, Norfolk, Va.; Miss Virginia Arnold, aged 26, Washington, and Miss Bertha Crone, aged 22, San Francisco.

Tonight the police were on the lookout for the other women in the party who dropped their banners and mixed with the crowds when the police first swooped down upon them.

All of the suffragists will be arraigned in the police court tomorrow morning.

At suffrage headquarters defiant statements were being issued all evening, and it was announced that the arrests today would in no way change the suffragists' program.

CONGRESS MAY ACT.

Representative Howard of Georgia today introduced a bill designed to prevent the suffragists from displaying their banners in the vicinity of the White House or other public buildings. Already there is a law making it a misdemeanor to exhibit in the capitol grounds banners, placards and so on, designed or adapted to bring into public notice any party, organization or movement therein.

Mabel Vernon of Nevada and Virginia Arnold of North Carolina, two suffrage pickets taken into custody by the Central police on Saturday when they attempted to display a banner on the visit of the Russian mission to Congress, were not brought to trial today as had been planned, because the congressional committee who have charge of the grounds advised the police to drop the case, at least until those of other suffragists arrested at the White House have been decided.

Bertha Crone was formerly a member of the California branch of the Congressional Union. She took an active part in the last presidential campaign. When the Congressional Union took the Dolly Madison house in Washington for its headquarters with Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. William Kent among those making it a home, Bertha Crone's mother was the house-mother of chaperons.

MOTHER AND SON BOTH WILL WED; DOUBLE ROMANCE

MAYNARD, June 26.—Mrs. Frances A. Ostrander, 55 years, of this city, and her son, Wilbur C. Ostrander, 29 years, have taken out marriage licenses at the same time in San Francisco. The son is under age and consequently his mother had to appear with him at the license clerk's office to give her consent. When he took out a license yesterday to wed Miss Lylia M. Coon, 20, of Daly City.

When the formalities of making out the young couple's license were complete, Ostrander's mother and William J. Lyman, 45, of Sebastopol, applied for a marriage license. Mother and son and their fiancées left the license office together. Friends believe they intend to have a double wedding.

HECKMAN BURIAL

MARTINEZ, June 26.—The funeral of Fred V. Heckman, who was drowned at Crockett Sunday while attempting to save his 7-year-old daughter, will be held Wednesday morning. The remains were shipped to Crockett today and placed in "Old Fellows" hall. Services will be held at 10 o'clock and the remains taken to San Francisco for interment.

The little girl, who had fallen overboard, was saved by Frank Leule, who also tried to locate the child's father, but after going under the water the body was not seen again until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when it was taken out of the bay with hooks.

BOAT-AUTO RACE

VALLEJO, June 26.—Commodore Herman S. Ketchum of the Vallejo Yacht and Boating Club, tested out his hydroplane on the bay Sunday and the craft made an average of 65 miles per hour. The owner is so pleased over the showing of the speed boat that he announces that he is ready to stage a race between here and Napa with Teddy Swann's automobile, and it is more than likely that it will be arranged for the morning of July Fourth.

WILL USE ISLAND

WASHINGTON, June 26.—The House military committee today voted to report favorably a bill authorizing the secretary of war to take over North Island, in San Diego harbor, for an aviation training station.

HOUSEKEEPERS Must be Watchful

For great efforts are being made in this vicinity to sell baking powders of inferior class, made from alum and lime phosphate, both undesirable to those who require high-grade cream of tartar baking powder to make pure and wholesome food

The official Government tests have shown Royal Baking Powder to be an absolutely pure and healthful grape cream of tartar baking powder, and care should be taken to prevent the substitution of any other brand in its place.

Royal Baking Powder costs only a fair price per pound, and is cheaper and better at its price than any other baking powder in the world.

Tells How to Take Soreness
From a Corn and Lift It Right Out.

Hospital records show that every time you cut a corn you invite lockjaw or blood poisoning, which is needless, says a Cincinnati authority, who tells you that a quarter ounce of a drug called freezone can be obtained at little cost from the drug store but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You simply apply a few drops of this on a tender, aching corn and the soreness is instantly relieved. Shortly the entire corn can be lifted out, root and all, without pain.

This drug sticks to the corn and is claimed to just shrivel up any corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. If your wife wears high heels she will be glad to know of this.—Advertisement.

Use Coconut Oil for Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain undiluted coconut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than the most expensive soap or anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and it cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulitified coconut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advertisement.
